It’s Disney come high fashion – and what a statement piece it is! This original piece was created by Paul "Franko" Franklin, a published art addict. The canvas is stretched (on stretcher bars) and has a gallery wrapped finish - the edges are also painted to match the face. Therefore the canvas doesn't need to be framed. This piece comes with a signed Certificate of Authenticity and is valued at more than $3,300.	Donated by Michael Caggiano

LIVE 3	Kirrikin Aboriginal Artwork	Introducing ‘Hills’, an original Aboriginal Artwork by Nyoongah artist Francine Kickett. Francine paints landscapes of the South-West of Western Australia, Nyoongah Boodja. She works with colours of the land, relying on the vibrancy of natural elements to open a dialogue or storytelling of creation, mythology, and the balance of its energy. The language is simple with dots, lines, curves and circles. Her modern style works are influenced heavily by social and political environments, in particular the era and times she grew up in. These had a big impact on her, such as growing up in Nyoongah communities where the primary source of income was from working on farms, shearing sheep, and the surrounding scapes - of which she depicts in her highly contemporary artworks. This exclusive piece revolves around identity through exploring Aboriginal people, traditions, and their land. A spirited product that captures the essence of Australia. This stunning artwork would make the perfect addition to any room or collection seeking something authentic and unique.	Donated by Starlight Children's Foundation
